International Postal Rates. Hon. J. Henniker Heaton, a member of the English parliament, who has come to this country to urge the adoption of a cheaper rate of postage on international letter mail, has addressed a long communication upon the subject to the Postmaster General, Mr. Heaton wishes to have the rates between Great Britain and Ireland and the United States reduced to 1 penny or 2 cents a half ounce. He makes his appeal, he says, on behalf of the poor and the middle classes, but he asserts that this cheaper post-age will mean also an increase of trade, and he serts that it will not involve any loss to the revenue of the United States. The United States, he says, conveys a letter from Washington to Alaska, 5,000 miles, for 2 cents an ington to Alaska, 5,000 miles, for 2 cents an office. He asks that this concession be extended to Great Britain and Ireland, less than 3,000 miles by sea. The Post Office Department, he says, now charges the people of the United States 5 cents on each letter and pays the steamship companies little more than 1 cent per letter. It thus makes a handsome the state of the Manhattan Athle clubs intend to come to the meet in second to come to come the meet in second to come the meet profit out of this business. In conclusion he

Many Senators took occasion to extend to him their denunciation of the assault. AS TO THE COURSE OF THE SENATE. It would be a proper thing for the Senate to send a protest to the House, and this will be done if it is decided that the matter should be noticed at all on the floor of the Senate. Some of the republicans of the House are engaged this morning in explaining why they permitted Mr. Kennedy to make his speech in violation of the rules. The general excuse is that there were but few membes present and all those absent would have protested had they been there.

Those present, however, were not actuated by any such impulse, and a very general opinion is that Mr. Kennedy's speech was not displeasing to many of his colleagues, who are bitterly disappointed at the failure of the elections bill. Many of them discovered after he took the position he did on this question that the charges against him, which they had be-fore thought unworthy of notice, were pretty

Mr. Lewis, the only democratic member of the committee in attendance, said ator this morning about Representative Ken- Mr. Goodnight, his colleague, was not in Washington he was in an embarrassing position and would like the committee to adjourn until Mr. Goodnight returned.

The committee showed some impatience at the failure of Mr. Cooper to be present, and after some discussion Judge Wilson, speaking for his client, Mr. Lemon, said that he did not eare to proceed in Mr. Cooper's absence. Mr. Cooper, he said, had been industriously circulations. lating charges against his client in the news-papers, while refusing to attempt to sustain them before the committee. Now he wanted the committee to subpæna Mr. Cooper so that he could be put on the stand to tell what he knew. The committee wanted him present and he (Wilson) wanted him as a witness, and that was the way to get him here. Mr. Cooper had no right to traduce a reputable business man, occupying the relations he did to the committee, and to stay away from committee sessions and allow those things to be circulated all over the world. Finally an order was made for a subpœna for Mr. Cooper and also requesting him to be present with his witnesses and evidence next Monday, to which day the committee ad-

A GREAT LUTHERAN GATHERING. Fifteen Thousand People Attend the Reunion at Pen Mar.

The gathering that attended the fifth annual reunion of the Lutherans of Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia, and the District at Pen Mar yesterday was remarkable for its great size as well as for the interest in the proceedings. It is estimated that there were 15,000 people present. The Baltimore Sun today says the visitors were from points as far down the valley of Virginia as Roanoke, and a train from Martinsburg and Winchester took 500 excursionists to the mountain resort. Over three thousand persons were from Harrisburg, Carlisle, Shippensburg, Chambersburg, Waynesboro', Hagerstown and Williamsport. Naylesboro, Hagerstown and Williamsport. Littlestown had 500, Frederick an equal number, Baltimore 700, Washington 600, Hanover and Gettysburg 1,000. The Western Maryland transported 1,100 to the place from stations north of Westminster. To move this mass of humanity required great care and coolness on the part of the officials of the road. The arrangements, which were excellent, were in the hands of Trainmaster J. C. Hiltabidle. Dispatcher W. P. Geary did the train running. In addition to those who went by railroad three thousand persons rode in different corts of rode in different sorts of conveyances. They commenced to arrive on the grounds at day-break, and there was a steady procession on the main road to Pen Mar up the mountain until 9 o'clock in the morning. From morning until evening the sky was clear, and the sun shone brightly through the locusts, chestnuts Statistics of Crime and Pauperism. A portion of the statistics collected by Mr. Fred H. Wines, the special agent of the Census Office in charge of the department of crime, pauperism and benevolence, have been tabulated by the office. He states that the populations on January 1 last of 109 prisons are represented by the tables. Of this number 40 show an increase of about 25 per cent in the number of inmates as compared with the census return of June 1, 1880, from the same institution. Of the 2,801 jails from which reports were re-ceived the number of their inmates in the agceived the number of their inmates in the aggregate shows an increase of 160 per cent over the census returns of 1880. Mr. Wines observes that in making this comparison it should be borne in mind that the winter population of jails as a rule is much larger than the summer population, and that, therefore, the census report of June 1, 1890, is likely to show a considerable decrease in this percentage. Reports have also been received from 2,268 alms houses, showing an aggregate of 77,885 inmates as against 66,203 in the same institutions in 1880.
